

TITLE

SCORPION TOXINS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

This invention relates to an isolated nucleic acid fragment encoding scorpion toxins that are K-channel modifiers. The invention also relates to the construction of a chimeric gene encoding all or a substantial portion of the K-channel modifier, in sense or antisense orientation, wherein expression of the chimeric gene results in production of altered levels of the K-channel modifier in a transformed host cell.

10

15

20

25

30

35

KWG/bjm